The benefactor of the Fellows Program, the late Dr Rex J Lipman AO ED attended St Peter’s College from 1933-1937 and was in Short House. He joined the Citizen Military Forces after completing his education at Saints and was a junior clerk at Goldsborough Mort. He studied commerce at night at the University of Adelaide.

He enlisted in the army at the outbreak of WWII and, early in the war, served with distinction as a Commando behind the Japanese lines in Timor and, later, as a staff officer in the famous 9th division where he was Mentioned in Dispatches (1945).

After WWII, as a Lt Colonel, he was the first Commanding Officer of the Adelaide University Regiment. It was during this time that he successfully studied dental surgery and built a large practice in Adelaide. In 1947, he married Eve Fisher, who, as an ‘other ranks’ army nurse, nursed him in hospital, in 1942. They have five children, fifteen grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

In the 1960s, he was involved with banking and finance and was CEO of Adelaide’s most successful Merchant Bank. In the 1970s he set up Angas Travel and brought the Swiss Hotel Association and the Cordon Bleu of Paris to Australia. Towards the end of the 1990s, Rex’s son, Gerald, took over as CEO of the International College of Hotel Management that Rex had started in 1992. It is now one of the leading International hotel Management schools in the Western World and has enrolled students from ninety different countries.

Dr Lipman was made a Member of the Order of Australia in 1989 for his contribution to the banking and thoroughbred horse racing industries, and, in 2008, for his services to education, tourism and the hotel industries, he was made an Officer of that Order. In the 1990s, the French Government acknowledged his services to France, by making him a Chevalier de la Légion d’Honneur and an Officier in the Ordre National du Mérite. In July 2014, in the Bastille Day Honour’s List, he was promoted to the rank of Officier de La Légion d’Honneur – an extremely rare honour for an Australian.

In 2014, Dr Lipman accepted the Headmaster’s invitation to become the 25th Fellow. This was to be Dr Lipman’s final public lecture, on the same stage where it all began for him as a student at the school.

Dr Lipman passed away in July 2015. He will be sadly missed by the school community but his legacy lives on at St Peter’s College through the Rex J. Lipman Fellows Program.

St Peter’s College is uncompromising in its commitment to advance and contribute to educational debate. The Rex J. Lipman Fellows Program builds on this tradition.

Established in 2011, St Peter’s College has welcomed 37 Fellows to the School. The Rex J. Lipman Fellows Program enabled leaders and scholars of international distinction to come to St Peter’s College and contribute to our School’s academic, intellectual and cultural life.

During their time at St Peter’s College, the Lipman Fellows will:

• Present a substantial public lecture
• Present small seminars on a topic of interest to boys and staff
• Be available for consultation with staff and students of the School

Fellows are recommended to the Headmaster and selection is made according to their:

• International standing and pre-eminence
• Value of the proposed Fellows
• Appeal of the public lecture to the School and the wider community

We have welcomed many prominent Australians as well as international visitors including:

• Professor Patrick McGorry AO
• Dr Rob Moodie AM
• Baroness Susan Greenfield CBE

We look forward to welcoming you to as many of these events as possible.

All enquiries about the Fellows program please contact Margaret Pullen, Positive Education Administrative Coordinator, on +618 8404 0436

I am delighted to launch the 2016 Rex J. Lipman Fellows Program now in its sixth year. This year’s program promises to be one of the most exciting created. Since 2011 over 10,000 members of the South Australian public have visited St Peter’s College to hear our Fellows deliver the public lectures.

Headed by Dr Mathew White, Director of Wellbeing & Positive Education, the program continues to bring some of the world’s leaders and commentators on contemporary issues including psychology, service, neuroscience and wellbeing to St Peter’s College.

The Rex J. Lipman Fellows Program is one of the most ambitious, publically spirited education programs created in the School’s 168-year history. Our objective is to give boys at the School the opportunity to meet, discuss, debate and engage with leaders in a diversity of fields. This program captures the spirit of our School’s vision and mission: to be a world-class school where all boys flourish.

Enclosed you will find an outline of the program, an introduction to the program’s benefactor Dr Rex J. Lipman AO ED as well as the program’s patrons and Fellows.

From the outset we have wanted to share the Fellows program with the broader South Australian community. I would like to extend a personal invitation to you, your family and friends to attend as many public lectures as possible.
Dr Mathew White
Director of Wellbeing & Positive Education, St Peter’s College

Mathew White PhD is Director of Wellbeing & Positive Education at St Peter’s College and has served on the Senior Leadership Team since 2011.

Mathew directs the Rex J. Lipman Fellows Program and the whole school’s wellbeing strategy and positive education programs adopted from positive psychology. He teaches IB English, Theory of Knowledge and coaches tennis and debating.

He has presented to the South Australian Governor’s Leadership Foundation, South Australian Government’s Executive Services Leadership Program, and the Positive Education Summit at No. 10 Downing Street and Wellington College, UK. With Simon Murray, he co-edited Evidence-based Approaches to Positive Education.

He is a member of the South Australian Health and Medical Research Institute Wellbeing & Resilience Centre’s Education Committee; Academic Advisory Board of the Positive Psychology Centre, Melbourne Graduate School of Education, The University of Melbourne and Academic Committee at St Mark’s College, Adelaide’s largest residential university college.

Dr Michael Carr-Gregg

Child and adolescent psychologist
Managing Director of the Young and Well CRC

Wednesday, 6 April 2016
St Peter’s College Memorial Hall

Dr Michael Carr-Gregg is the Managing Director of the Young and Well CRC.

Michael is one of Australia’s most prominent child and adolescent psychologists, the author of nine books including bestseller Princess Bitchface Syndrome, and has also worked as an academic, researcher and political lobbyist. As Managing Director, Michael plays a key role in leading and implementing the Young and Well CRC’s digital education program both in Australia and internationally, and works to extend the reach and impact of the Young and Well CRC’s initiatives through collaborating with existing partners and building new relationships.

Michael’s extensive use of technology in his clinical practice for the last five years gives him particular insight into the valuable role that technology can play in the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of mental health problems. Michael is on the Board of Smiling Mind, is a Community Ambassador for Big Brothers Big Sisters and Playgroup Victoria, Treasurer of the Australian Psychological Society Committee (Melbourne Branch), and a member of the ePsychology special interest group for the APS.

He is also a columnist for a number of publications including New Idea, Girlfriend Magazine and the Australian Boarding Schools Association publication, LightsOut. He is the resident parenting expert on Channel 7’s Sunrise as well as psychologist for the Morning Show with Neil Mitchell on Radio 3AW. Michael is married with two children and is a Special Patron of the Hawthorn Football Club.
